

Here in 2035 there are trees and fruit stands lining the street, there is a river flowing down the middle of the alley eventually dropping into the wide ocean. A bridge is connecting 2 towns as well as serving as a miniature orchard. I sit and listen to the sound of chatting people.
 Joe, St James' CoE Primary School, West Malvern

Here in 2035 I am standing on the edge of a lake. There is a city on the lake covered with solar panels and trees. At the pier there are solar powered barges to take you to it. From the woods at my back comes a cacophony of noises of animals.

Here in 2035 I am in London and everything is green and beautiful. Streets are lined with trees filled with hammocks and platforms and the only sounds are birdsong and chatter; the glittery solar-panelled-roofed cybertrucks make no noise.

Here in 2035 it is looking like a big forest, it's like all of the tree cutting stopped. The temperature is warm as ever. There is a big river flowing down slowly. I see beautiful flowers and I've never seen them ever. People are so nice and kind.

Here in 2035 there is a futuristic eco-friendly house. As soon as I walk in I see eco-friendly veneers panelling the floors and bathroom walls screwed on with second-hand screws to save metal. There are mattresses with sheep's wool inside to save metal and as a level of comfort. I look out the window to see a clear blue sea with tropical fish and a small town built entirely out of eco-friendly materials and completely covered in solar panels. The trams also have solar panels!

Here in 2035 I am surprised how much it has changed. It is the perfect world to live in. There are eco-friendly homes that were abandoned but the government has renovated them and has let homeless people live in them. I see everyone getting along and having friendly chats. There are also accessible parks and homes. People are kind and selfless!

Here in 2035 I see a riverside restaurant for people to come and enjoy the smell of freshly baked cookies coming from the next door shop and it would be totally free. Tiny beavers gnawing at scrummy wood. People are having yummy picnics on the freshly cut grass. Each house has a free allotment to eat juicy fruit. That is 2035.

(St Anne's CoE Primary School, Bewdley)

Here in 2035 I get ready for school, once I am done I get in my car, electric car. We drive past a farm with endless amounts of fruit and veg. Then my dad drops me off in town. 7 hours later my dad picks me up and brings me back home. We get our bikes and put our helmets on. We peddle down the hill, we soon go past the lake and see the beavers who are chopping down trees. Then I see other beavers building dams to stop the lake flowing so we don't have floods. We stop for a break and we look in the distance and see birds making birds' nests.

(St Anne's CoE Primary School, Bewdley)

Here in 2035 all people will stop cutting down trees - animals' homes - and let animals live the way they want to.

(Oscar, St James' CoE Primary School, West Malvern)

Flowers in the meadow sweet
Unusual fruit for all to eat
The river burbles gurgling
Under the trees it leaps and jumps and sings
Roaring tigers stalk the night
Enter jungle only in daylight!

(Ralph, St James' CoE Primary School, West Malvern)

I am 20. Now the school is good. You can have break whenever you want, when you want, brain breaks whenever you want. The beavers have stopped the flooding rate. I have met some beavers and now every day I feed them.

In 2035 there are fruit trees growing everywhere! People like to sit in a quiet area where you can watch the beavers building dams. People are using electric cars and it's brilliant. There are fruit trees everywhere. Instead of buses, there are trams and when you go to school you get a free snack. Concerts are free to go to and everyone has enough money to buy houses. There are lots of shops that provide you with food and water.

Here in 2035 I go downstairs. I smell the strawberries that my mum picked from our flower patch. Mum shouts me "Breakfast". I eat my breakfast "Yum! Yum!" I go to school. There are solar panels on the roof of every building and the beavers are so cute, they stop the floods. We're on a school trip to the beaver sanctuary, a baby beaver is being released! So cute!

Here in 2035 I am walking in a quiet, kind street and you know how in 2024 there was so much pollution, well here in 2035 there is no pollution at all. The river is crystal clean and that is what I see when I am going to the writing studio for my job as an author!

Here in 2035 there is loads of shelter and clean fountain water. There is loads of greenery and fruit trees to eat from and loads of homes for endangered species.

Here in 2035 on a meadow there is Coldplay playing and recycled instruments on every street. There is a tap of clean water and everyone has a home. At school there are colourful fruit trees all over it and everyone has friends.

Here in 2035 everything is amazing! The beavers are happily building dams. Everybody is laughing and everything is happy.
